FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 4.

THE Presbyterian Church has united its two great branches, the Old and New Schools, and henceforth will be known as one Church. The General Assemblies of the separated branches have unanimously adopted the plan of union, which, however, remains to be approved formally by an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the Presbyteries, and to be put in operation at an adjourned meeting of the United Assemblies to be held in Pittsburgh next fall. The separation took place in 1838, and bies to be held in Pittsburgh next fail.

The separation took place in 1838, and in the meantime both bodies have grown vigorously. The particular point upon which the separation took place is hardly remembered at this time, and to the great multitude of the church members of the present genere. It is a sad thing. A community without her social action, a seeme to mother, is a sad thing. A community without her social action, a speared unnecessary and unwise. The peared unnecessary and unwise. The control has been made without any concession by either side. No law, regulation or policy of either body, not all formally adopted by the consolidated assemblies. Whatever differences there may be in the discipline and rules of the two bodies will have to be reconciled bereafter by a General Assembly of the United Church.

A BRETON peasant, on his way to Paris, stopped at a barber's shop in Rambuillet, While the barber was strapping his razor the peasant noticed a dog sitting near his chair and staring at him fixedly. "What is the matter with that dog," said the peasant, "that he stares so at me?" The barber an-wered with an unconcerned air: "That dog is always there. You see, when I cut off a piece of an ear—" "Well?" "Well, he eats it."

GENTS:—I have received so much benefit from "Darby's Prophylactic Filid," that feel it my duty to let you know it. I had an attack of Typhold Fever, and with it a most tubborn case of Erysipelas, and was confined to my bed near two months, suffering the most intense pain and the time from Erysipelas, and after exhaustic githe many prescriptions of my physician, he finally commenced the use of 1'arby's Prophylactic Fluid, and soon found that I was being improved by its use, and continued to nest it, and am hearly well. I consider it the most valuable medicine for the diseases and purposes for which it is made that is sold. I also used it most successfully on my little son who was severely burnt, and I do assure you that it was from this medicine alone that I could get any relief from my distressing attack of Erysipelas.

I do not write you this as a certificate for publication, but as a duty that I feel i owe to Prof. Daiby and his invaluable medicine.

I hope you are succeeding, and will make a fortune. Very truly yours.
